CHINESE TAKE SECOND SERIES

(From Monday's Advertiser.)

By a batting rally in the eighth inning, assisted by a generous bunch of errors on the part of the Kaala Juniors, the Chinese Athletic Club Juniors took yesterday's championship game away with them. Up till that inning the Kaalas had a nice lead of two runs, with the score standing five to three, but the eighth, on three base hits, the Kaalas into the lemon-bush and the Chinese cantered around for four.

This gives the Chinese Athletics the championship of the second series of the Kalamano League, that team having been tied two weeks ago with the Twilights and the Kaalas and having defeated them both since. In the first series the Kaalas won out, and a deciding game for the league championship will now have to be played. This game will not come off, however, until after the Chinese New Year.

The score of yesterday's game, in detail, was:

BREWERS DO THE PATROLMEN

(From Monday's Advertiser.)

The Brewers bottled up the Pearl Handles in the opening game on the Atkinson park diamond yesterday, drove in the corks and delivered up the goods as exhibit A for a blind pig case. The police took a lead in the second innings, but their day was a short one and the game finished up by the Brewers smacking the leather for seven runs in the seventh and scoring ten laps to the good. By innings the score reads:

Runs.....	12	3	4	5	6	7	8	9

The second game, between the Ocean Views and the Laundrymen, was won by the former by nine runs to seven.

The Washers thought it was a pipe when they punched the list four times in the opening splash, but the Viewers turned the tables on them and mangled their record to a pulp, scoring five times in their second time at bat. With the exception of these two spasms the game was closely played, a fair proportion of gooses being handed back and forth. The score by innings was:

KNIFED THREE POLICE OFFICERS

(From Monday's Advertiser.)

The buckle of special officer Apana's police belt saved that gallant Chinaman from death early yesterday morning, deflecting a sharp "load-stabber" knife from a well-directed blow headed for his abdomen. The blade ripped through his dark uniform coat and sweater and was broken off on the metal buckle. Within a minute officer Medeiros received a painful wound from the same knife in the biceps of his left arm, while officer Espinda received a slash across the third finger of his left hand. The wounds were made by a Japanese known as Naka, who is employed as a yard-boy by C. L. Wright in Nuuanu valley. Officer Medeiros' wound was dressed at the Queen's Hospital, some stitches being necessary to close the gash.

The wielding of the knife is due probably to Lopez and Rodriguez, the Porto Rican jail-escapes, being at large, and the Japanese mistaking the police officers out on a gambling raid for foot-pads. The Japanese gives two versions of the affair, one being that he was so drunk with sake that he doesn't remember what happened during the night, and the other, that he had heard other Japanese commenting on articles in the Japanese papers of convicts who had escaped from jail, being still at large, and that he mistook the officers for persons intent on doing him harm.

The officers had just left a place in Nuuanu valley where they had investigated a gambling place when they saw a Japanese come down the valley toward them. He approached the four officers, Apana, Medeiros, Espinda and Ahi, and spoke to them in Japanese. He finally turned away and went up the valley again, stopping on the veranda of a Chinese store. The officers, who were on their way up the valley, also, thought the action of the Japanese strange, and thinking he might be the watchman for a gambling game, walked up to him. Apana opened his searchlight, which he turned on the face of the Japanese. Then opening his coat, he turned the light on his police badge, and said he was a police officer, using the Japanese term for such. Suddenly the Japanese wheeled around and officer Apana felt something rip his coat and he felt the impact of metal on a hard substance in the vicinity of his abdomen. He called out to the other officers that he was cut. The Japanese ran away and the officers pursued. As Medeiros came up the Jap struck at him, the blade, with the point now broken, entering his arm. Espinda then took a hand and in attempting to wrest the knife from the man's hand was cut on one of his fingers.

Apana considers that he had one of the narrowest escapes of his eventful and rather exciting police career. Under the circumstances, the police believe that the Japanese—who bears a good character from his employer and speaks no English—thought he was being stood up by the jail escapes, there will be no prosecution.

Another attempt to stab a police officer was made yesterday afternoon in Iwilei, a Japanese named Takahashi drawing a rusty jack knife on Officer Leal and attempting to interfere in an arrest. An onlooker came to Leal's assistance, being wounded in the hand while wrestling the knife away from the Japanese. Takahashi is now under arrest, charged with an assault with a deadly weapon.

RED DOG TELLS HONOLULU TALES

A message came over the wireless tonight that Bill Devereaux is peddling more Red Dogs than ever before. His sales have increased appreciably since he returned from the islands, and the explanation is that Bill is using a new brand of chloroform upon the fiends who dabble with his slot machine. When a victim starts to drop his nickels into the slot, Devereaux leans over the counter and spins a Honolulu adventure, which holds the man on the other side spellbound. Mr. Victim forgets all about how many nickels he is separating himself from, so entranced he is by the story of Devereaux's travels, and the wind up that he is badly bent, though he may carry away a bundle of Red Dogs when he says goodbye. How tall is a coconut tree? Just ask the Red Dog. He can tell you for he climbed one on the islands. Brick will bet you that a coconut tree is higher than the Call building. Dashedwood goes so far as to say that Devereaux was the first white man to climb one of these high trees. It is no feat for a native to shin up one, but quite another proposition for a being of the Red Dog's complexion.—S. F. Bulletin.

KAUAI'S SUGAR CROP.

At the present time the amount of sugar awaiting shipment at the various Kauai ports, according to the report of Purser Grube of the W. G. Hall, is 108,740 bags, divided among the plantations as follows: K. S. M., 6500 bags; Makaweli, 34,020; Gay & Robinson, 2560; McBryde, 27,775; K. P., 11,600; Lihue, 5425; H. M., 13,590; K. S. Co., 2000; M. S. C., 1600.

J. F. Morgan is quoted as saying that while the Promotion Committee will not give up the quest of tourists it will try to get settlers also.

NEW MUSIC FOR BERGER'S BAND

In response to a request made by him a few weeks ago, E. O. Child, manager of the Hawaiian Hotel, has just received from one of the prominent music publishers of New York a dozen of the latest popular songs and music of the day. These Mr. Child has sent to Captain Berger for the use of the Hawaiian band in its concerts. It was in order to give them to the band that Mr. Child sent for them.

The publishers, Joseph W. Stern & Co., 102-104 West 38th street, New York, were very generous and sent full orchestral scores for each of the selections. In a letter accompanying the music the publishers mention some of these compositions which have become especially popular. Among them are "Down in the Cherry Orchard," a song by S. R. Henry; "She Was a Grand Old Lady," also by Henry; and "With You in Eternity," by Alfred Solman.

The following is a list of the compositions, the full orchestral score of which Messrs. Stern & Company sent: "Down in the Old Cherry Orchard," by S. R. Henry; "Down Our Way," by S. R. Henry; "I'd Like a Little Loving Now and Then," by Tom Kelley; "She Was a Grand Old Lady," by S. R. Henry; "When Someone Really Cares," by William Cahill; "The Glow Worm," by Paul Lincke; "With You in Eternity," by Alfred Solman; "When My Girl from Tiptop Tips Me," by S. R. Henry; "You Splash Me and I'll Splash You," and "Yankee Rose," (Medley March) arranged by R. L. Halle; "Punch and Judy," by S. R. Henry; "Red Domino," S. R. Henry; "Love in Black and White," by Christine & Hale; "La Likette," by Gaudin & Davis; "Peter, Piper," by S. R. Henry; "She Was a Grand Old Lady," and "I'd Like a Little Loving Now and Then," (Medley March) arranged by R. L. Halle.

Mr. Child has sent to Miss Sophie Brandt, prima donna in the production of Oscar Straus' new operetta "A Waltz Dream," for the score of this operetta, to be given to Captain Berger and the Hawaiian band. "A Waltz Dream" is a new operetta which bids fair, according to all accounts, to rival in popularity "The Merry Widow." It is the very latest in successful opera, and the Hawaiian band playing selections from it will be strictly up to date.

The band will have a busy week. Today Captain Berger and the band will be in attendance at the German Consul's reception in honor of Emperor William's birthday, from 11:30 to 1 o'clock, and in the evening will give a concert at Emma square. On Tuesday there will be the departure of the Hilonian calling for the attendance of the band, and the concert in the evening at Thomas square. Wednesday there will be the departure of the Alameda in the morning, the Kiloahana Art League entertainment at the Alaka League street fishmarket in the afternoon, and the regular concert in the evening. Later in the week the Chinese New Year will call for extra concerts.

ECLIPSE CREW LANDS ON MAUI

The news arrived in this city yesterday afternoon that the American ship Eclipse, Captain Larsen, which sailed from Newcastle for San Francisco with a load of coal on October 15, foundered at sea on January 11, and that the captain and eleven men had arrived at Hana, Maui, after spending sixteen days in open boats on the ocean. Three of their companions died from exhaustion and exposure the day before reaching Hana.

The Eclipse was a vessel of 1463 tons and was seen in Newcastle by Captain Fullerton of the Fort George, who arrived here yesterday from San Francisco, where he went after leaving the Australian port. She sprang a leak during a storm and, after a four days' struggle at the pumps, it was decided to abandon her and her crew took to their boats.

While the Eclipse was 103 days out from Newcastle, her long trip had not excited any great amount of comment, as is shown by the fact that up to January 18, when the last San Francisco papers which have reached here were issued, she had not been placed on the overdue list. A passage of ninety days, while considered very long, would not cause great comment at this season of the year, when the winds can never be depended on.

The shipwrecked sailors are being cared for in Hana and will arrive in this city next Thursday morning, coming down on the Claudine. The wreck occurred in latitude 35 north, longitude 155. This means that the shipwrecked crew were about 900 miles away from their landing point, in almost a direct line to the north.

THE OLD GUARD DINES BUT NEVER—

W. C. Weedon in responding to the toast "Whence" spoke of the original Y. M. C. A. started by George Williams in 1844 of which he became a member in 1861. The Honolulu Y. M. C. A. was organized April 30, 1869, and of the first eleven members ten are still living. Of the thirty-one men who constituted the organization up to the middle of 1871, twenty are still living, and possibly twenty-one. These thirty-one, in the order in which their name are signed to the membership roll, were as follows:

S. N. Emerson, Curtis J. Lyons, P. C. Jones Jr., A. Francis Judd, Sanford B. Dole, H. McIntyre, William Clark, W. Hall, S. W. Pogue, T. R. Walker, Walter C. Weedon, H. A. P. Carter, S. M. Damon, C. A. Castle, Jas. Tucker, Samuel Nott, Joseph P. Cooke, J. B. Atherton, W. R. Castle, A. F. Cooke, J. Bartlett, B. F. Dillingham, Robert Bayard Snowdin, Robert W. Andrews, John M. Oat, E. C. Damon, D. P. Peterson, S. C. Damon, Charles G. McCully, and W. O. Smith.

Secretary Paul Super told something of the work the association is doing in helping individual men to better lives. W. L. Whitney dwelt on the work that is opening before the association and of the need of a new building to carry it on in.

F. W. Damon opening with a delightful panegyric of the term "Missionary" which he declared would "become the proudest gem in the nomenclature of our island life," gave in a most interesting way how the Y. M. C. A. had really inaugurated Christian work among the Chinese who began to come in large numbers about the time the organization was formed.

W. R. Castle in telling of old Honolulu days said that while the external Honolulu had changed greatly, there yet remained much of the old noble simplicity of living that was worth emulating.

B. F. Dillingham pleasantly introduced his address by saying that he was born in the year that the Y. M. C. A. was founded, and was married the year the Honolulu organization was formed.

In introducing Mr. F. J. Lowrey to respond to the toast "What We Gave," Toastmaster Davies very gracefully recalled that Mrs. Lowrey had given one afternoon a week for a long time to the juniors of the Y. M. C. A.

Mr. Lowrey told of the time and thought and effort that was given by the members in the days before a paid secretary was employed. After enumerating some of the lines of work carried on and the methods adopted in carrying them on he said that what was given was comprehended at least as to very many of the Old Guard by the conclusion that they gave themselves.

Ed. Towse spoke of how the Y. M. C. A. was developing along many and varied lines. W. L. Howard brought the speech-making to a close in a speech full of classical allusion, on the "Old Guard."

James F. Morgan has resisted overtures of business men to have him run for mayor, saying his health is not such as would stand the stress of the campaign or of the office.

AN EDUCATOR OF HIGH CLASS

Seemingly a first-class man has been engaged to teach in the Normal school in place of Professor Pope, who resigned to take the acting deanship of the College of Agriculture and Mechanical Arts. His name is Vaughan McCaughey. He is an advanced undergraduate of the Agricultural College of Cornell.

Superintendent of Education W. H. Babbitt was some weeks ago advised by cable that a good man for the Normal vacancy had been secured, but until last mail had arrived he was not apprised of his name.

John W. Gilmore, professor of agronomy in Pennsylvania State College, has written to Prof. Edgar Wood, principal of the Normal school, relative to his selection of Mr. McCaughey. He says in part:

"I have now succeeded in getting for you a man whom I believe to be very well adapted to your needs. This man is Mr. Vaughan McCaughey (pronounced McCoy). He would normally graduate from the Cornell College of Agriculture in June next, but he has determined to leave at the close of this term and go to you at once, graduating in absentia.

"Mr. McCaughey is rather young but he is a splendid worker and I believe embodies that excellent characteristic for you, adaptability. He is handy with his pencil and his crayon and he has always kept his work in close touch with practical agriculture. I have known him for the past three years as a student and have seen him before classes of students and general audiences and he makes a good impression. He is kind and polite and is also a good writer."

GIVEN UP BY SPECIALISTS CURED BY DOAN'S BACKACHE KIDNEY PILLS.

Miss Emma Shirley, of Kill Buck, N. Y., says: "Kidney trouble mysteriously fastened itself upon me and I ran down so rapidly that in a short time I was a nervous wreck. I had no strength and was so weak and had so much pain I could hardly totter about. I was down in bed for weeks, and could hardly turn over. When I got up I was so nervous, that if anyone looked at me I was ready to cry. My eyesight failed, headaches and dizzy spells racked me, and I had terrible pain in the side. I could not retain my food, my complexion was pasty, and all the time the kidney secretions were awfully irregular. I went to Buffalo and was treated by renowned doctors, but only sank lower and lower until my friends gave me up to die. Through a friend I learned of Doan's Backache Kidney Pills, and after taking two boxes, felt very much better. I kept on until I had used twelve boxes, and was then so greatly improved that I was able to go home to Kill Buck. This was within four weeks after I left my bed, and I hardly dared hope I was well, but so it proved. Though I had lost 18 pounds while in bed, I recovered that and six pounds more. Doan's Backache Kidney Pills saved my life, and I shall never quit praising them."

Doan's Backache Kidney Pills are for sale by all chemists and storekeepers at 50 cents per box, six boxes for $2.50. Mailed on receipt of price by the Hollister Drug Co., Honolulu, wholesale agents for the Hawaiian Islands.
